6. Publication authorisation

The registration of a film automatically entails the authorisation to publish it in the Festival catalogue, in all Festival print communication and on the Festival Internet website.

7. Returning copies

Copies will be returned the week which follows the end of the festival.

8. Transportation and insurances

Copies' delivery charges are the responsibility of participants and return delivery charges the responsibility of the Du grain à démoudre association.

Insurance costs covering the period between the reception and returning of copies are the responsibility of the Du grain à démoudre association.

Should there be any losses or deterioration during this period, the Du grain à démoudre association will be responsible for the replacement value of the copy.

No claims concerning the state of copies will be receivable beyond 30 days following the return date.

9. Invitations

Directors of films selected will be invited to the Festival.

The Du grain à démoudre association will take in charge the travel expenses, meals and accommodation. For each film, one director (or representative) will be invited.

10. Prizes

Various prizes will be awarded, including:

- 'The Grand jury' prize (Festival Trophy for the best feature film and the best short film, composed by professional players from the audiovisual field, film directors, actors, stage directors...)
- 'The young film lovers jury', for the best feature film and the best short film (Festival Trophy)
- 'The young audiovisual student jury' for the best feature film and the best short film (Festival Trophy)
- 'The public' prize (Festival Trophy) for the best feature film and the best short film. This prize is awarded by the spectators' vote.

Award-winning films get broad European promotion via professional networks.

11. Television and Internet

Participation in the Festival automatically gives the du grain à démoudre association authorisation to reproduce and broadcast, free of charge, extracts of films selected for the Festival on television and on internet sites.

These extracts must not exceed 10% of the total length of the film and will in all cases be limited to 3 minutes. They will only be used for Festival news reports, television or Web programs or interviews, and/or promotional adverts for the current or future Festivals.

12. Following the Festival

Participation in the Festival automatically gives to the Du grain à démoudre association the authorisation to edit extracts of several films selected for the Festival (in particular prize-winning films) and to screen them, via any format, to promote the Festival in France and abroad. This authorisation is valid for a period of one year, renewed by tacit agreement.

13. Unexpected cases and disputes

Situations not provided for in the Festival regulations are to be handled by the Du grain à démoudre association's bureau or its representative, who are also responsible to grant dispensations on special motivated request.

14. Miscellaneous

Participation in the Festival automatically implies that the terms of the present regulations are accepted without reserve. The Du grain à démoudre association's bureau or its representative are authorised to cancel a registration and take adequate measures should the Festival regulations not be complied with or in case of any attitudes susceptible of disturbing the good progress of the event.

Should any dispute occur, the tribunal of competent jurisdiction is the court of Le Havre.
