1.4 SECTIONS

The Festival comprises the following sections:

- International Competitions for Short Films
- Special events and projects
- Meetings

1.5 ADMITTED CATEGORIES

International Competitions, divided into four categories clustered by age groups, conceive and accept short films, both fiction and animation, with a greater concentration of shorts, mainly animated, for the Competitions intended for younger students and, as age increases, longer durations and a greater variety of genres, being always attributable to fantastic cinema and all its declinations.

International Short Film Competition 6+: it includes programming of short films of a maximum duration of 15 minutes, mostly animated, with very simple dialogues or no dialogues at all. In the event of films screened in their original languages, they may be understood with the help of an actor dubbing live with a voice over system. What type of films will be presented? Protagonists of these stories are of the same age of the jurors, making identification process and engagement in narrated stories easier. Different genres are proposed, comprising fantasy, adventure, fairy tale and sci-fi. These films often revolve around family conflicts, complex relationships with peers, how children look at adult world, small and big adventures that test kids' ability to move autonomously in everyday life and to intervene on reality.

International Short Film Competition 9+: it includes programming of short films of a maximum duration of 15 minutes. Films are in Italian or without dialogues. In the event of films screened in their original languages, they may be understood with the help of an actor dubbing live with a voice over system. What type of films will be presented? Films selected for these students try to show common difficulties faced in this peculiar moment in life, using the language of fantastic cinema. Common realities interfacing at different cultural and social levels shows how young people deal with the same problems, have the same interests and the same feelings. Potential subjects faced in this section are therefore infinite. Relationships with peers, the way different cultures address such a complex period, rites of passage establishing the coming into adulthood, various interests nurtured from youngsters. How to grow up in today's world and how directors succeed in analyzing future generations? Our goal is to show the sometimes comical, sometimes dramatic side of an individual's growth, knowing from the beginning that there are unique answers.

International Short Film Competition 12+: it includes programming of short films of a maximum duration of 30 minutes. Despite having a consistent presence of animated short films, this section begins to show a greater presence of fiction films. Films are in Italian or without dialogues or, if screened in their original languages, subtitled in Italian. What type of films will be presented? The 12+ film program does not address predetermined themes, proposing the best of world production of fantastic cinema dedicated to young viewers. Our goal is to present stories capable of satisfying every type of audience, which are those stories that touch our deepest feelings. These films represent the realization of a project dedicated to the complex coming-of-age period where individuals cannot consider themselves either kids or adults. Each film survives in the viewer's memory until its magic endures in the words of those who enjoyed it, even long after the screen light fades in the dark.

International Short Film Competition 15+: it includes programming of short films of a maximum duration of 30 minutes. Despite having a consistent presence of animated short films, this section begins to show a greater presence of fiction films. Films are in Italian or without dialogues or, if screened in their original languages, subtitled in Italian. What type of films will be presented? These are articulate and brave films, hard to categorize. Stories proposed in section 15+, always implying the fantastic or magic element, are selected as they face themes of generational interest. Here languages and distances cease to exist. Looks blend into worldviews, just as different as they are complementary, producing infinite dialectical exchanges, emerging during the film analysis or during the conversations with the authors. Section 15+ gives the opportunity to overcome narrow cultural borders and to appreciate diversity. Countless versions and visions of the same form arise in the films, whose protagonists' young viewers can identify with, while learning how to relate to them through Visioni Fantastiche's debates. Their imagination can therefore spread out and tie the facets of realities surrounding them together in a single perception. If truth relies in the eye of the beholder, at Visioni Fantastiche the viewers universe never crystallizes, but it expands and transforms, becoming more and more immersive and open to new forms of diversity.
